

MIC. # 10041 (RAB. 2169)

ZEVI HIRSCH, OF ZAMOSE

צבי הירש מזאמושטד.

TESHUVOT.

תשובות.

זלאטשוב [1786?]

ASHKENAZIC SCRIPT

הועתק והוכנס לאינטרנט
www.hebrewbooks.org
ע"י חיים תש"ע

R 1593a
Rob 2169

LIBRARY
OF THE
JEWISH THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY OF AMERICA

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the left page. The text is heavily obscured by large, dark, irregular ink blotches and stains, particularly in the upper and middle sections. The legible portions are scattered and difficult to decipher.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the right page. Similar to the left page, it is heavily obscured by large, dark, irregular ink blotches and stains, making the text largely illegible.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the left page of a manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 25 horizontal lines. The page is heavily obscured by large, dark, irregular ink blotches and stains, particularly in the center and lower half, which significantly obscures the underlying text. Some legible fragments include words like "אשר" (asher) and "ביום" (be-yom).

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the right page of a manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 25 horizontal lines. Similar to the left page, it is heavily obscured by large, dark, irregular ink blotches and stains, particularly in the center and lower half. Some legible fragments include words like "אשר" (asher) and "ביום" (be-yom).

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The text is densely packed and covers most of the page, with some large, dark ink blotches or stains obscuring parts of the writing. The script is consistent throughout the page, suggesting a single scribe or a well-trained team. The overall appearance is that of an aged and somewhat damaged document.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, similar to the left page. This page also features significant dark ink blotches and stains, particularly in the middle and lower sections, which obscure the underlying text. The script is dense and fills the page, with some lines appearing more clearly than others due to the varying extent of the damage. The overall quality of the text is similar to the adjacent page, indicating it is part of the same manuscript.

[Faded Hebrew text, mostly illegible due to heavy ink blotches and bleed-through from the reverse side.]

[Faded Hebrew text, mostly illegible due to heavy ink blotches and bleed-through from the reverse side.]

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the left page of the manuscript. The text is dense and appears to be a continuous passage, possibly a letter or a section of a book. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher due to the high contrast and some ink bleed-through from the reverse side.

אשר

The right page of the manuscript is mostly blank, showing significant signs of aging, including discoloration, foxing, and some faint, illegible markings. There are a few small dark spots and a faint circular mark near the bottom right corner.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the left page of the manuscript. The text is densely packed and appears to be a continuous narrative or legal document. There are several large, dark ink blotches or stains obscuring parts of the text, particularly in the middle and lower sections. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher in many places due to the damage and fading.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the right page of the manuscript. The text is densely packed and appears to be a continuous narrative or legal document. There are several large, dark ink blotches or stains obscuring parts of the text, particularly in the middle and lower sections. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher in many places due to the damage and fading.

Large, dark ink blotches and stains covering the lower half of the right page, obscuring the text underneath. The stains are irregular in shape and vary in density, with some areas appearing almost completely black. The remaining visible text is faint and illegible.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the left page of the manuscript. The text is densely packed and appears to be a continuous narrative or legal document. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher due to the high contrast and some ink bleed-through from the reverse side.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the right page of the manuscript. The text is densely packed and appears to be a continuous narrative or legal document. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher due to the high contrast and some ink bleed-through from the reverse side.

Handwritten text at the top of the left page, partially obscured by ink blotches.

Main body of handwritten text on the left page, heavily obscured by a large, dark ink blotch.

Vertical column of handwritten text on the left side of the right page.

Main body of handwritten text on the right page, heavily obscured by a large, dark ink blotch.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the left page. The text is dense and appears to be a continuous narrative or list. There are several large, dark, irregular blotches or stains obscuring significant portions of the text, particularly in the center and lower right of the page. The script is written in a consistent hand, with some larger characters that may indicate the start of new sections or words.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the top portion of the right page. The text is dense and appears to be a continuous narrative or list. There are several large, dark, irregular blotches or stains obscuring significant portions of the text, particularly in the center and lower right of the page. The script is written in a consistent hand, with some larger characters that may indicate the start of new sections or words.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the bottom portion of the right page. The text is dense and appears to be a continuous narrative or list. There are several large, dark, irregular blotches or stains obscuring significant portions of the text, particularly in the center and lower right of the page. The script is written in a consistent hand, with some larger characters that may indicate the start of new sections or words.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is densely packed and covers most of the page, with some areas obscured by dark ink blotches or damage. The script is consistent throughout, suggesting a single scribe or a well-trained copyist. The document appears to be a formal record or a legal document, given the structured nature of the entries and the use of certain phrases that might be titles or specific terms of the time.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, similar to the left page. This page also contains dense, flowing text with significant dark ink blotches and damage, particularly in the central and lower portions. The script is highly legible despite the ink issues, and the overall layout is consistent with the adjacent page, indicating a continuous document or a similar type of record. The text seems to follow a similar pattern of entries or paragraphs as seen on the left page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the upper portion of the left page. The text is partially obscured by large, dark ink blotches and stains, particularly in the center and lower-left areas. The script is dense and appears to be a continuous narrative or list of items.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the upper portion of the right page. The text is heavily obscured by large, dark ink blotches and stains, particularly in the center and lower-right areas. The script is dense and appears to be a continuous narrative or list of items, mirroring the content on the left page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, with significant dark ink blotches obscuring parts of the page.

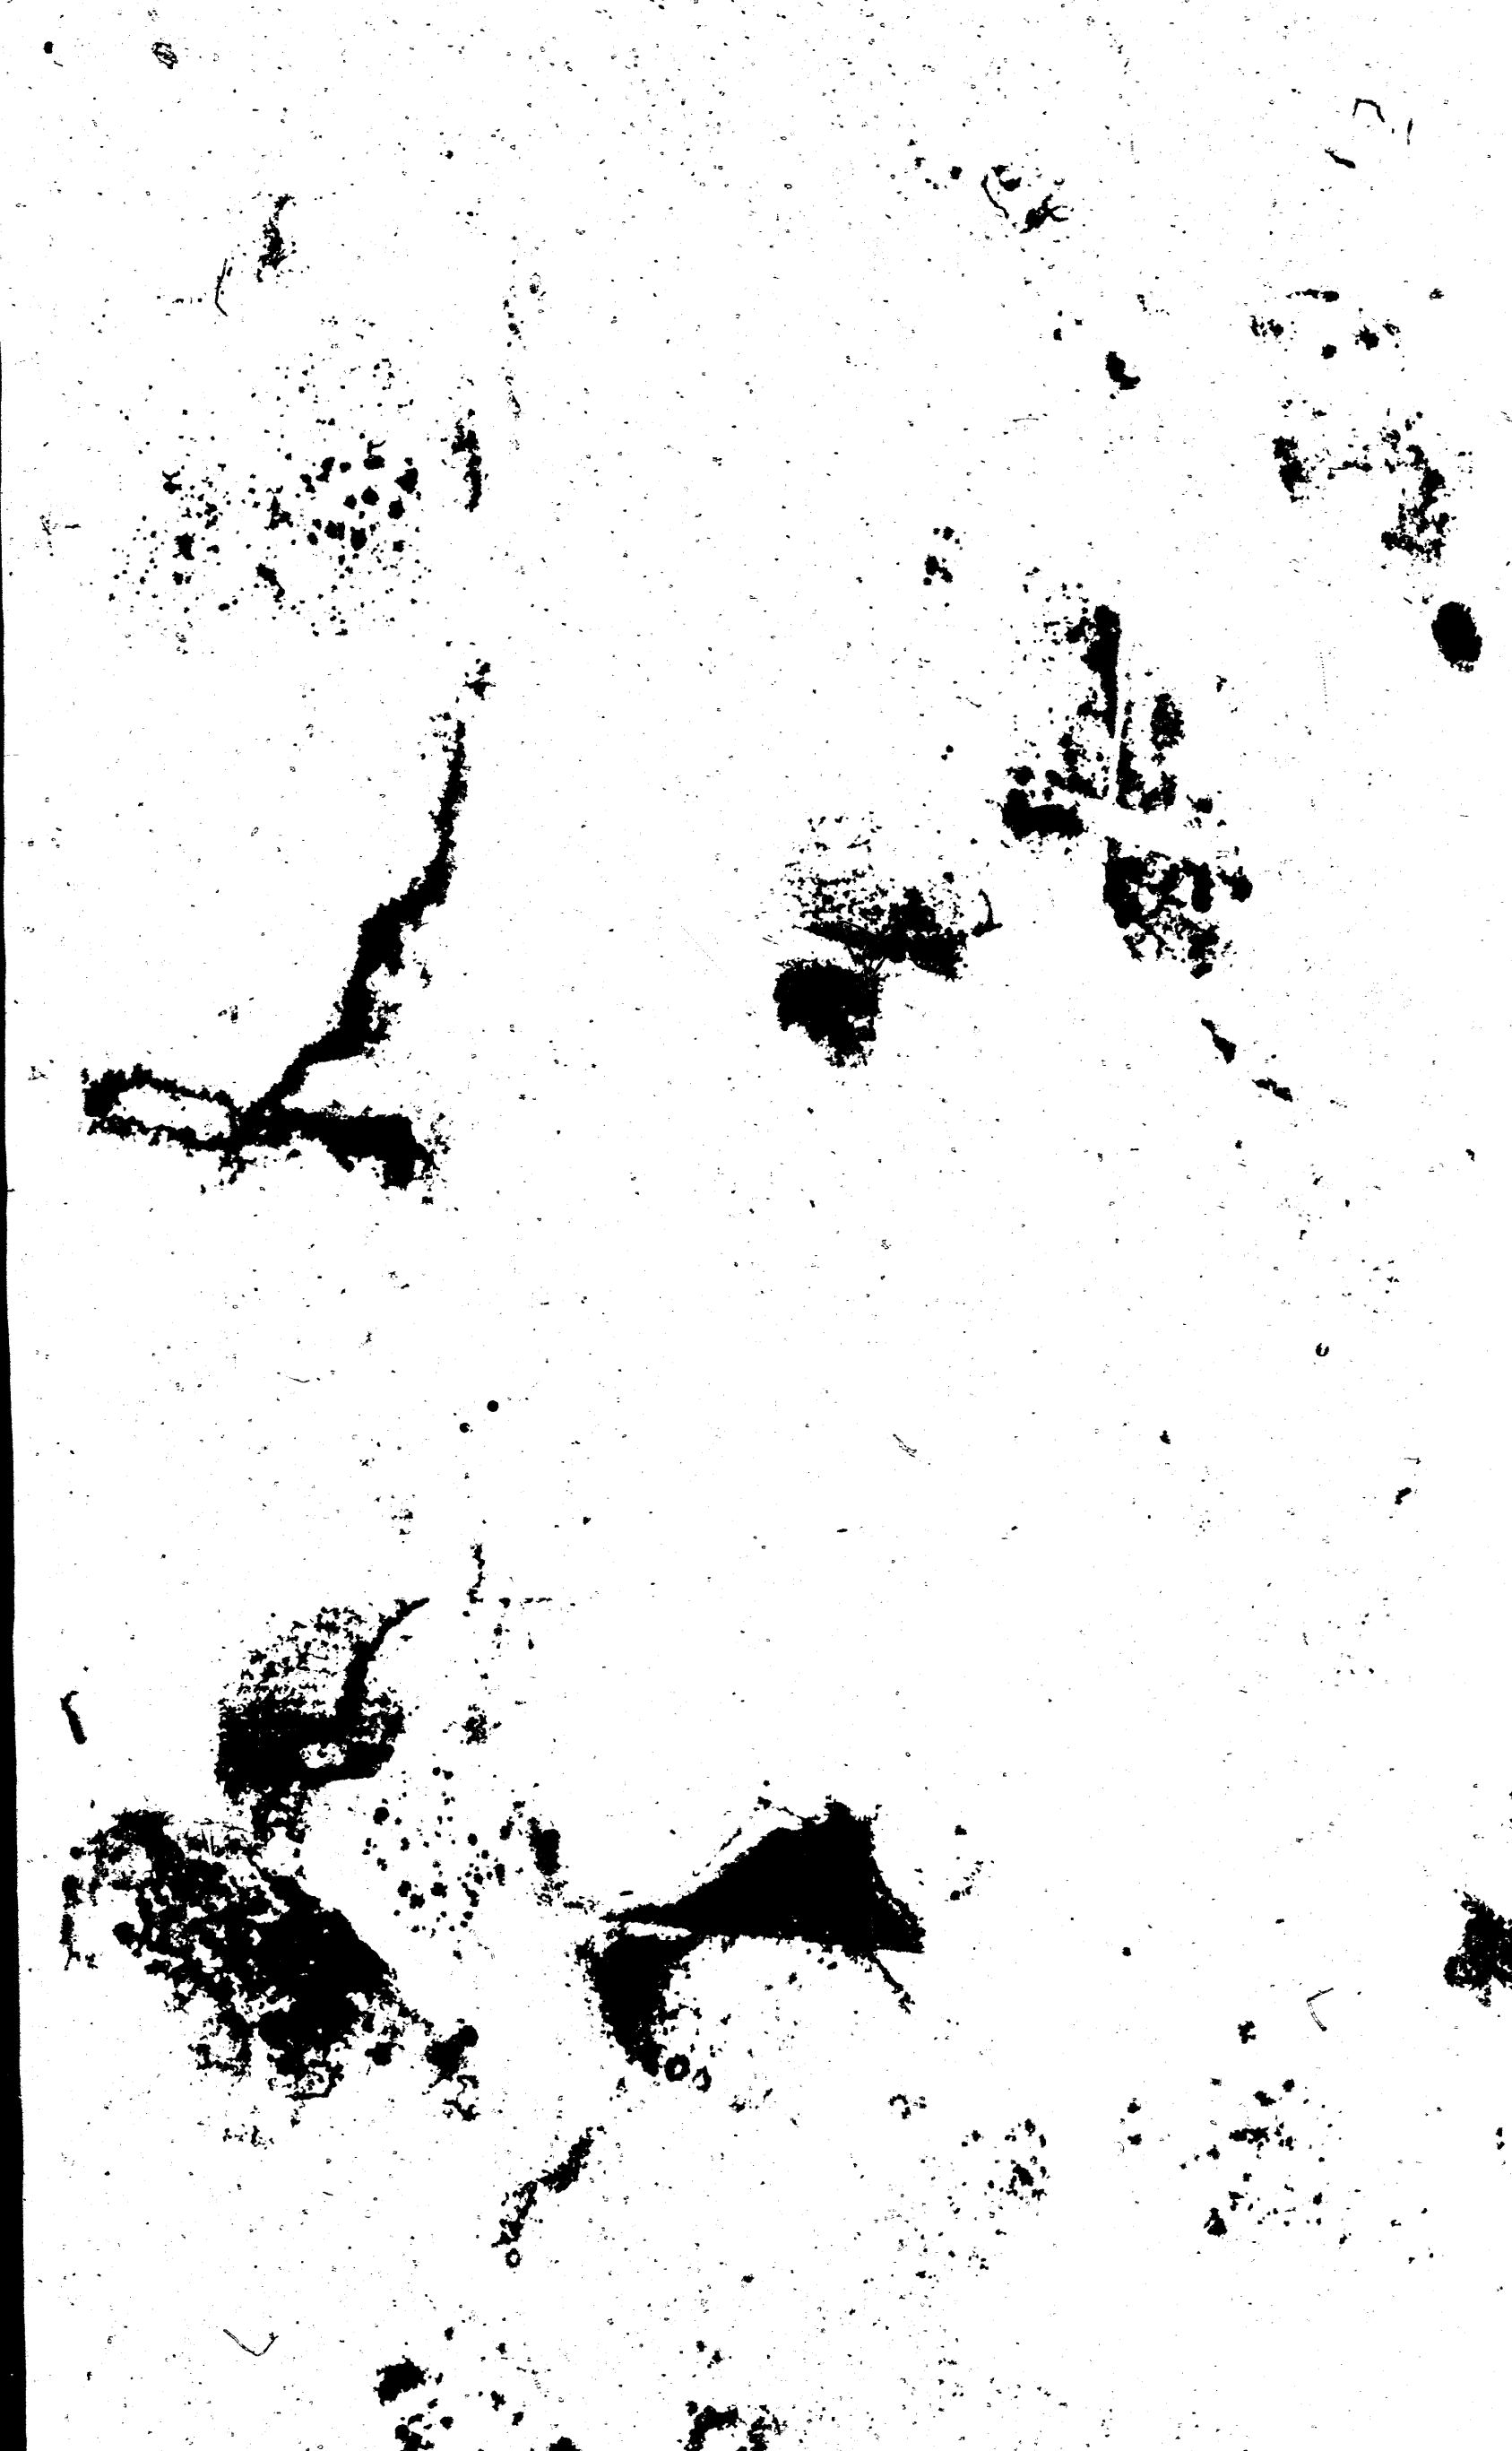

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, with significant dark ink blotches obscuring parts of the page.

אמר ה' אל

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the upper portion of the left page. The text is dense and appears to be a continuous narrative or legal document. There are several large, dark, irregular ink blotches or stains obscuring parts of the text, particularly in the center and lower right of the page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the upper portion of the right page. The text is dense and appears to be a continuous narrative or legal document. There are several large, dark, irregular ink blotches or stains obscuring parts of the text, particularly in the center and lower right of the page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 25 horizontal lines. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to the high contrast and significant ink bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. Some words and phrases are partially obscured by large, dark ink blotches and smudges, particularly in the middle and lower sections of the page. The overall appearance is that of an aged and heavily used document.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The text is densely packed and covers most of the page. There are several large, dark ink blotches or stains, particularly in the center and lower right, which obscure some of the writing. The script appears to be a form of Gothic or similar medieval hand.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The text is densely packed and covers most of the page. There are several large, dark ink blotches or stains, particularly in the center and lower right, which obscure some of the writing. The script appears to be a form of Gothic or similar medieval hand.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The text is densely packed and covers most of the page. There are several large, dark ink blotches or redactions scattered throughout, particularly in the middle and lower sections. The script is consistent and appears to be a form of Gothic or similar medieval hand.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, similar to the left page. This page also contains several large, dark ink blotches or redactions, notably in the middle and lower right areas. The text is dense and fills the page, with some lines appearing to be more prominent than others.

Handwritten text in Hebrew script, heavily obscured by large black ink blotches and stains. The text is arranged in horizontal lines across the page.

7

Handwritten text in Hebrew script, heavily obscured by large black ink blotches and stains. The text is arranged in horizontal lines across the page.

Handwritten signature or name in Hebrew script.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The text is densely packed and covers most of the page, with some areas appearing heavily inked or obscured. The script is characteristic of Gothic or similar medieval hands. The text is arranged in several columns, with some lines starting with large initial letters. The overall appearance is that of a well-used, possibly damaged, historical document.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, similar to the left page. This page also features dense, flowing text in multiple columns. The script is consistent with the left page, suggesting they are from the same manuscript. There are some large, dark ink blotches or areas of heavy staining, particularly in the lower half of the page, which may be due to age or damage to the original document. The text continues in a similar fashion to the previous page, with some legible words and phrases interspersed among the dense script.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The page is heavily obscured by large, dark ink blotches and stains, particularly in the center and lower right, which significantly obscures the original text. The visible portions of the text are written in a dense, flowing hand.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The page is heavily obscured by large, dark ink blotches and stains, particularly in the center and lower right, which significantly obscures the original text. The visible portions of the text are written in a dense, flowing hand.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the left page of the manuscript. The text is densely packed and appears to be a continuous narrative or legal document. There are several large, dark, irregular blotches or stains that obscure significant portions of the text, particularly in the center and lower right areas of the page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, covering the right page of the manuscript. The text is densely packed and appears to be a continuous narrative or legal document. There are several large, dark, irregular blotches or stains that obscure significant portions of the text, particularly in the center and lower right areas of the page.

